El Camino Sets Fall Semester Registration

Registration for the Fall semester at El Camino College will bring an estimated 6700 students to classes on opening day and will establish a new record for enrollment the old record being 6100 students, set during the previous Fall semester.

Priority registration for students who attended El Camino during the Spring semester began last week and ended yesterday. General registration will commence Monday.

"All students who wish to carry 10 or more units during the semester must either phone or come in during the summer and make an appointment for counseling. Counseling is available prior to registering for classes," said Merl F. Sloan, director of student personnel.

The anticipated record 6700 students has been prompted by early release of eligible servicemen for G.I. training, and by larger graduation classes in most of our 10 community district high schools, continued Sloan.

"We expect an increase of 200 new veterans to begin their training this Fall which will give us a total of 1400 veterans enrolled for both day and evening classes," Sloan stated.

Oil Scavenging Relation to Smog Sought

Information concerning the relation of breakdown at petroleum scavenger plants—which process waste sulphur from refineries—to periods of high degrees of smog was requested Monday of Air Pollution Control Officer S. Smith Griswold, Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said he was asking for the information because of the great amount of public interest in breakdowns at the scavenger plants and "the possibility that the breakdowns have played a major role in several of the recent smoggy days."

He asked that Griswold give him information on three points:

1. How often have the plants had breakdowns since they have been in operation?
2. What is the incidence of smoggy days during the periods that the plants have either been partly or completely out of operation?
3. Should the refineries be required to build auxiliary scavenger plants to be put in operation when the present plants are out of operation?

He also asked Griswold to inspect the capacity of the scavenger plants and determine if they are sufficient to handle maximum output from the refineries. He also asked he be given the reasons for breakdowns at the plants.

When the scavenger plants break down, the oil refineries burn the waste products that normally are processed for recovery of sulphur compounds. This means that the contaminants are put into the air when the scavenger plants are not in operation.
